Protect your home from water damage

Phyn smart water products

The average home leaks 10,000 gallons of water a year.¹

From broken pipes to leaking appliances, water damage can often seem like something out of your control. Water shut-off devices put the control back in your hands: They help protect your home and assets now and into the future and allow you to avoid the inconvenience of extensive repairs.

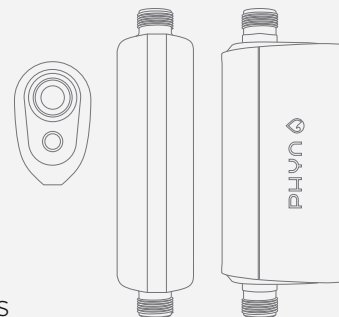

As a Nationwide® Private Client policyholder, you're eligible for savings on Phyn Plus (2nd generation). And you may qualify for a credit on your homeowners policy if you install a device.

How Phyn works

Phyn is installed on your home's main waterline and immediately begins to match your water fixtures to the pressure signatures it's compiled from millions of showers, toilet flushes, pool fills and washing machine loads.

Profiles are created for each fixture so you can see how much water is being used and understand normal water-use patterns for your home.

If Phyn sees a profile that looks like a leak or freeze, it will alert you, allowing you to turn off the water from your phone. With Phyn Plus, there's also an auto shut-off feature in case of a catastrophic leak, plus daily plumbing checks that ensure you're aware of even small issues.

Installing Phyn

- 1 Visit phyn.com/nationwide-private-client to order your Phyn Plus (2nd generation).²
- 2 Confirm that there's an outlet within 10 feet of the location at which water enters your home.
- 3 Once you receive your tracking information from Phyn, schedule a plumber for the installation.

For full installation details and assistance, visit phyn.com/installation.
